Gianantonio Rosti, graduated in Medicine and Surgery at the University of Bologna in 1982, after which he became a fellow at the John Hopkins University Hospital (Baltimore, USA) until 1986. From 1988 to 1993 he was a Medical Assistant at the Institute of Hematology "Seràgnoli", Bologna University, St Orsola Hospital and from 1994 to date.

As an expert in the conduction of clinical trials according to the GCP IHC (good clinical practice; International Committee on Harmonization), his specific scientific pursuits are numerous and include becoming a Scientific Secretary (from 1992 onwards) to the former Italian Cooperative Group for Chronic Myelogenous Leukemia (now the Italian Group For Adult Hematologic Malignancies [GIMEMA] Chronic Myeloid Leukemia Working Party [CML WP]). The GIMEMA CML WP is based on a collaborative effort of more than 100 Italian hematologic institutions (university hospitals and general hospitals) performing clinical trials in CML. Samples for molecular biology follow-up are centralized in Bologna and examined in three Laboratories (Bologna, Naples and Turin), with overall accrual of early chronic phase patients reaching up to 500 in just 24 months.

Professor Rosti is also a member of the European Investigators on CML (EICML) and of the steering committee for the European Treatment and Outcome Study (EUTOS) registry, member of the ELN panel writing ELN recommendations. And of the scientific board of the Max Foundation and of the iCML foundation. In addition to being an author or co-author to more than 300 papers and meetings abstracts.
